

Quiz Framing Objects

by Anne Vazquez

- When sewing a mount for a textile object, use a thread that:
  - is invisible.
  - is the same fiber as the object.
  - is cotton.
  - is the strongest possible.
- All of the following are methods used to dry flowers for framing, except:
  - silica gel
  - air drying
  - hair dryer
  - microwave oven
- In order to frame an object like a jigsaw puzzle or a book without using an adhesive to mount, a type of mat to use is a:
  - double-bevelled mat
  - cove mat
  - sink mat
  - 4-ply mat
- When making a shadow box, the piece used to increase depth by fitting into the back edge of the rabbet is called:
  - a liner
  - a fillet
  - a shelf
  - an extender
- A mat style in which the sides are angled, drawing the viewer's attention to the object within the mat is:
  - an oval mat
  - a Kobe corner
  - a cove mat
  - a v-groove
- Despite the chance of some off gassing, _____ is generally thought to be a good, strong, non-preservation adhesive for attaching 3-D objects in a framing package.
  - silicone glue
  - wheat starch paste
  - tape
  - white glue
- The recommended method for attaching a garment to the back "wall" of the frame package is:
  - gluing
  - sewing
  - taping
  - stapling
- When framing paper-borne art along with other objects, it is recommended that you protect it from possible acidity by:
  - spray coating it on both sides.
  - attaching foamboard behind it.
  - applying clear lacquer.
  - encapsulating it.
- When building a shadow box with a door, the contents should be assembled from:
  - front to back
  - side to side
  - back to front
  - doesn't matter
- To block needlepoint in preparation for framing means to:
  - fold it neatly.
  - square the fabric.
  - conceal a section of it for the frame design.
  - separate it into sections.